San Diego Woman Wins Gold!

Women's Regional Publications Of America (WRPA) Awards Magazine With Top Honors

(SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA) - At the recent Women's Regional Publications of America (WRPA) conference held in Louisville, Kentucky San Diego Woman was awarded "Best New Magazine" and "Best Redesign of a Magazine," two of its top awards. "It's wonderful that San Diego Woman is receiving this national recognition," said Judith Habert, Publisher and editor-in-chief. "As a new magazine we are working hard to produce the best product we can for the women of San Diego. It is great to receive recognition of our hard work."

The award-winning San Diego Woman magazine launched in December of 2006 and produced 5 monthly issues. The publisher left the publication and then editor-in-chief, Judith Habert took over as Publisher with a decision to totally revamp the publication. San Diego Woman went from a low quality newsprint publication to a high gloss, full color, perfect bound magazine, with increased page count, and widespread changes in distribution and editorial content.

San Diego Woman has interviewed some of the most prominent local figures including some of the Top 50 Female San Diego Business Owners, News anchor Carol Lebeau, and world renown photographer Douglas Kirkland. Their editorial line up for 2009 includes many prominent local and national celebrities. The bimonthly not only profiles women in the San Diego area, but also features in-depth articles about career issues, beauty and fitness, family and relationship issues, health matters, dollars and sense, travel, dining, art and culture, fashion, music and entertainment. Available by subscription, the magazine can also be found at all major supermarket chains including Vons, Henry's, Ralph's, Albertson's, and Stater Bros.

Women's Regional Publications Of America (WRPA) is a national professional association of women magazine's from across the country that help promote the well-being and progress of women in the areas of business, health, and lifestyle interests.
